First you must download our website from the GitHub repo. Specifically you need the “runners-match-revised” folder and all of its contents in order to run the site.

Once you have the appropriate folder and its contents downloaded, open up your terminal and cd into runners-match-revised and then cd into the src folder and install the following by running the following commands:

npm install
```

npm install react-router-dom
```

```
npm install firebase
```

```
npm install recompose
```

To run the site exit the src folder (so you're in runners-match-revised) and then type "npm start" in the command line to get the server running. Your default browser should automatically open up and load the site within a couple minutes and if it does not simply type "localhost:3000" into the URL of the browser of your choice to access the site
